Move the Solution, Not the Problem

Completed Project-Home Heating Oil Remediation - Parsippany, New Jersey

The site had a very dense clay layer from 5-6' below surface which was not anticipated from previous reports, nor in the boring logs. This required slower injection rates to insure all soil was contacted.

Sealing the interior wells through the garage floor allowed higher pressure and flow rate to extend the treatment under the corner of the house and into the front yard.

Reaction in monitoring wells 30 feet away indicated that the treatment was moving horizontally in all directions.

The site was submitted for closure 6 months following the single injection of Molecular Oxidation Compound. One day was needed for the interior wells to set/seal and two days were needed for injection of all wells.
