Completed Project-Home Heating Oil Remediation - Toms River, New Jersey

Heating Oil contamination from leaking UST extended beneath the residence, fence and deck. Angular injection under the fence and deck allowed treatment without excavating nor removing the fence or decking. A local spot of contamination was detected following the treatment and was retreated at no cost per the contract. Areas of free product on groundwater reached non-detect in two months.

The property contained numerous subsurface utilities which were not effected by the STI treatment process. A private gas line was located along the property border which would have caused concern for excavation, thermal treatment or chemical oxidation types of treatment methods.
